Béjar

Béjar is a town in the south of Salamanca. It’s got a population of approximately 16,000, and there is snow in the mountains during the winter, and a lot of people come for skiing.

I like Béjar because the forest is near the town. In summer, you can go to the mountain your family and your friends and you can eat and walk with them. My favourite places are the "Castañar" and the "Peña de la Cruz".

Béjar is approximately 70 kilometres from Salamanca. It’s about an hour by bus. There are a lot of buses but there aren’t any trains, to travel by plane you have to go to Salamanca or Madrid.
